One platform. Three surfaces. Zero missed cues.

Tymly gives every role its own screen — speaker, media operator, organizer — and stitches them together on one shared clock. Below is a real, moving preview of what each role sees during a live event.

Speakers.
For the person on the stage.

Media.
For the operators behind the desk.

Organizer
For the director in the room.

The speaker's only job is to be present.

A calm, glanceable screen on the podium or phone. No countdown-clock anxiety. Just how much time is left, what's coming next, and a silent tap when it's time to wrap.

Command the room, not the chaos.

Every session, every speaker, every cue — laid out on one timeline. Push a message to a single role, shift a cue by 30 seconds, and watch the whole team update in real time.
